Dear Bob,

As usual, I'm responding to deadlines a little later than I should be. I hope that getting the ad now doesn't inconvenience you any. I decided to give you a couple of copies so that you wouldn't have to pry one off a previously done issue. I really appreciate your running the ads.

On a different note, I'm enclosing $7.50 for a copy of the Astrovision Basic assembly listing. I'd like to see how they accomplish some of their operations.

I'm planning on attending the Faire this year, and visiting your booth. If I can't get some stuff to you before-hand I can at least deliver it personally. I'll probably give you a call on this in the next week or so.

I noticed in your letter that you're looking for ways to mass produce cassette tapes. I've stumbled onto a tape duplicating service down here that can provide duplicates, including the cassettes themselves, for under a dollar each. The only problem is that they have a minimum order of 100. As yet I haven't tried them out to see how the 2000 baud tapes copy across, but being originally recorded on audio systems there shouldn't be any problems. I'll have this all checked out before I talk to you next time.

Thanks for your time.

Sincerely,

Andy Guevara

Dear Bob,

Enclosed, you will find 2 copies, (one white + one pale yellow), of an ad sheet that I had printed for Video Wizards.

The white copy is for you to hold on to, until I have enough funds to send you, and at that time you can run it as a full page ad in the following issue of the Arcadian.

The pale yellow copy is one of several that I have sent out, in the mail, in the past two weeks.

If I sent you a stack of the yellow ad sheets, could you make them available at the West Coast Computer Fairs? If you can, let me know how many I should send. Looking forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Ken Springsteen
